

Besqab first to break ground with new condominiums in Slakthusområdet

Besqab AB (publ) ("Besqab") broke ground for the new housing project Fransyskan in Slakthusområdet. The block includes a total of 122 condominium apartments and a preschool. The project is being built through a turnkey contract and is built in accordance with the Nordic Ecolabel "Svanen".

Besqab's CEO Magnus Andersson broke ground together with Anders Göransson, chairman of the Södermalm district council and member of the Exploitation Committee of the City of Stockholm. The ground breaking was done by blasting away a piece of rock to prepare for the foundation.

Magnus Andersson, CEO of Besqab:

"It is gratifying to be able to highlight one of the first housing projects in this new urban district. We have invested a lot of time and care in the architecture to tie in with the older buildings. The homes have been very well received by the market and the homes will be ready in the beginning of 2028."

Anders Göransson (S), Chairman of the Södermalm District Council:

"This housing project really hits the mark in terms of the Stockholm master plan's goal of a growing climate-smart city. Now we are transforming "Stockholm Meatpacking District" and creating connections to Enskede, Johanneshov and further towards Södermalm – and it is gratifying to see that the plans are now being put into practice."
